
BCR SUMMARY FOR EMPLOYMENT AND BUSINESS INFORMATION IN THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC AREA AND THE UK

Cargill has implemented a legal mechanism known as 'binding corporate rules' to provide appropriate safeguards to protect your Personal Information from the European Economic Area (the “EEA”) and the UK when it is transferred to another Cargill company outside of the EEA and the UK. These cover your Personal Information processed by or on behalf of Cargill in an employment context (“Employment Information”) and in a business context (“Business Information”).

Cargill has the following binding corporate rules:

- EEA BCRs: Cargill has one version covering the transfer of Employment Information from the EEA outside the EEA (the “EEA Employment BCRs”) and one version covering the transfer of Business Information from the EEA outside the EEA (the “EEA Business BCRs” and together with the EEA Employment BCRs the “EEA BCRs”); and
- UK BCRs: Cargill has one version covering the transfer of Employment Information from the UK outside the UK (the “UK Employment BCRs”) and one version covering the transfer of Business Information from the UK outside the UK (the “UK Business BCRs” and together with the UK Employment BCRs the “UK BCRs”).

Unless we specifically refer to the EEA BCRs or UK BCRs in this summary, the information applies to both sets of binding corporate rules (together called the “Cargill BCRs”).

In this summary of the Cargill BCRs, the specific words have the following meaning:

- “Cargill” means Cargill, Incorporated in the USA and its subsidiaries and affiliates worldwide. You can access a list of current Cargill companies by contacting the Global Privacy & Responsible AI Office using one of the methods set out in Section 7 below.
- “Customer” means a customer, prospective customer or target customer of Cargill.
- “Data Protection Authority” means a competent national data protection authority in an EEA member state, the UK or any other relevant jurisdiction.
- “Personal Information” means information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person that is processed by or on behalf of Cargill by automatic means.
- “Supplier” means a current or prospective vendor, supplier, subcontractor or partner of Cargill.
- “Web and/or Digital Application User” means a user of a Cargill internet website and/or digital applications.

1. DESCRIPTION OF THE TYPE OF DATA SUBJECTS COVERED BY THE CARGILL BCRS

Your Employment Information will be covered by the Cargill BCRs if you are any of the following individuals:

- current and former Cargill employees (permanent, temporary, part-time or full-time), including retirees;
- individuals who, although not Cargill employees, are part of Cargill's “external workforce” such as consultants, independent contractors and temporary agency workers;
- job applicants and other prospective Cargill employees, such as those joining Cargill in connection with Cargill acquiring all or part of a third party's business;
- dependents and beneficiaries of current and former Cargill employees and individuals who should be contacted in the case of an emergency, where such information is provided to Cargill by an employee in connection with his/her employment relationship with Cargill; and
- students when engaged as part of their study or on work experience (e.g. internship) at a Cargill company.

Your Business Information will be covered by the Cargill BCRs if you are any of the following individuals:

- a Supplier or someone representing an organization that is a Supplier;
- a Customer or someone representing an organization that is a Customer; or
- a Web and/or Digital Application User.

2. DESCRIPTION OF THE CATEGORIES OF PERSONAL INFORMATION COVERED BY THE CARGILL BCRS

The Cargill BCRs cover various categories of Employment Information in connection with your work at Cargill, including:

- contact details, such as address, telephone number and email address, etc;
- financial information, such as salary, bank account details, corporate credit card usage, employment benefits, etc;
- recruitment information, such as CVs, application forms, etc;
- career information, such as appraisals or performance reviews, disciplinary records, details of skills and experience, absence and vacation records, employee benefits, etc;
- information with respect to the administration of and your use of a corporate credit card, or other purchasing card (where relevant);
- information about your travel for Cargill business or where otherwise recorded in the travel management system, such as details of bookings, tickets and receipts for travel, accommodation and other expenses incurred, etc;
- your whereabouts in Cargill locations to the extent recorded by Cargill's electronic card access systems and video monitoring or other surveillance systems;
- information about the administration of and your use of Cargill assets, such as computers and phone or other handheld devices (where relevant and permitted to be collected by local law); and
- CCTV images and visit information for visitors to Cargill sites.

The Cargill BCRs cover various categories of Business Information that Cargill collects and uses depending on the particular business context and the purpose for which it was collected. This may include:

- contact details (such as your name, job title, gender, work address, telephone numbers, email address, fax numbers and so on);
- details of your relevant experience and/or academic and professional qualifications (for example, if you are employed by a vendor);
- details of your business and other interests and opinions (for example, where information is held in a Customer Relationship Management database);
- for Web and/or Digital Application Users, information relating to your use of the Cargill website, including the content of web forms, contributions made to any discussion forums and browsing history, IP addresses and your path through the Cargill website as well as usage of digital applications;
- credit card details, credit worthiness, and other financial-related information, such as relevant payment-related information collected in support of a business transaction; and
- CCTV images and visit information for visitors to Cargill sites.

3. DESCRIPTION OF THE TYPES OF PROCESSING AND PURPOSES COVERED BY THE CARGILL BCRS

The Cargill BCRs cover all processing of Employment Information by Cargill, but generally Cargill only uses Employment Information for employment-related purposes, including:

- workforce planning and recruitment, such as job advertising, interviewing, selecting and hiring new staff;
- management and administration, such as employee career development, compensation and benefits and performance management;

- performance of Cargill's business operations, such as carrying out Cargill's day to day business activities;
- legal and regulatory compliance, such as compliance with health & safety requirements and other legal or fiscal obligations, participating in due diligence activities for the sale or purchase of a business, or in connection with litigation or an internal investigation or audit; and
- security management, such as activities related to ensuring the security of Cargill premises, assets, information, and Individuals.

For more details on the specific processing activities, please refer to Cargill's Data Privacy for Employment Information Policy. A copy can be requested by contacting the Global Privacy & Responsible AI Office using one of the methods set out in Section 7 below.

Cargill processes Employment Information because it is necessary to do so in connection with a contract, including an employment contract. In addition, certain processing may be based on your consent or because it is necessary to comply with a legal obligation or to enable Cargill to pursue its legitimate business interests as a leading provider of food, agriculture, financial and industrial products and services.

The Cargill BCRs cover all processing of Business Information by Cargill, but generally Cargill only uses Business Information for one or more of business-related purposes below:

- negotiating, concluding and performing contracts with Customers (including the provision of financial services and advice);
- managing Cargill accounts and records;
- advertising, marketing and public relations (including direct marketing, targeted marketing and advertising and other marketing technologies);
- market research and analysis;
- negotiating, concluding and performing contracts with Suppliers;
- communicating with individuals that are, or who represent, Customers, Suppliers or Web and/or Digital Application Users;
- operating the Cargill website, including the use of analytics software;
- supporting Cargill's corporate social responsibility activities;
- facilitating the security of Cargill sites, websites and other assets;
- facilitating the safety of you or others;
- legal and regulatory compliance and internal control evaluations and audits (including where conducted by Cargill's internal and external audit service providers);
- debt administration; and
- obtaining legal advice, including for legal proceedings and litigation and also in connection with the sale, purchase or merger of a business.

For more details on the specific processing activities, please refer to Cargill's Data Privacy for Business Information Policy. A copy can be requested by contacting the Global Privacy & Responsible AI Office using one of the methods set out in Section 7 below.

Cargill processes Business Information as necessary for its legitimate business interests and those of third parties that Cargill interacts with. Certain aspects of Cargill's processing are also necessary to comply with the law or are based on your consent, or other available legal grounds for processing.

Cargill has implemented a series of data privacy principles that it applies to its processing of Employment Information and Business Information. More detail on these principles can be found in the EEA and UK Employment Information Notice and the Business Information Notice.

4. WHERE IS PERSONAL INFORMATION TRANSFERRED TO?

Cargill processes Employment Information and Business Information both locally in the country or region where it was obtained and using centralised computer systems currently located at data centres around the world, including outside the UK and the EEA.

Employment Information and Business Information from each Cargill company is typically transferred to Cargill, Incorporated in the United States. Other authorised Cargill personnel (acting on behalf of other Cargill companies) may access such Employment Information and Business Information remotely and as a result, the information may be transferred from the data centres in the United States to the country from where such access is made.

Cargill restricts such access to people within the company who have a "need to know" that information. As a global company doing business across national borders, there are many situations where this "need to know" requires Employment Information and Business Information to be transferred to Cargill in another country, including countries that may provide no or less legal protection for Personal Information.

However, the purpose of the Cargill BCRs is to protect your Employment Information and Business Information in countries where Cargill does business. Your Personal Information will be transferred to a Cargill company under the Cargill BCRs where that Cargill company is a member of Cargill's UK BCRs or EEA BCRs as applicable, unless Cargill is relying on an alternative transfer mechanism under the applicable data protection law (for example the Standard Contractual Clauses with the International Data Transfer Addendum) in cases where Cargill has notified you or it is obvious from the processing. This means that Employment Information and Business Information from the UK and the EEA may be transferred under Cargill's UK BCRs or EEA BCRs to those Cargill companies listed in Section 8 below.

5. YOUR RIGHTS IN REGARD TO PROCESSING, INCLUDING ALL THIRD PARTY BENEFICIARY RIGHTS, AND THE MEANS TO EXERCISE THOSE RIGHTS

Under the Cargill BCRs, you have the following rights with respect to your Employment Information and Business Information:

- Access and Correction: If you would like a copy of any of your Employment Information or Business Information, or if you would like to update or correct it, please use this form;
- Objection and Restriction: In some circumstances you may object to Cargill's processing of your Employment Information or Business Information or request the restriction of Cargill's processing using this form;
- Erasure: You may request the erasure of your Employment Information or Business Information without undue delay on certain grounds, subject to certain exceptions using this form;
- Portability: In some circumstances you may request that Cargill provide your Employment Information or Business Information in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and to transmit your Employment Information or Business Information directly to another organisation, where technically feasible. If you wish to exercise this right, please use this form;
- Notification regarding correction, erasure or restriction of processing: You may request information on the third party organisations to whom Cargill has notified of any correction, erasure or restriction of processing of your Employment Information or Business Information;
- Automated Decisions: You have the right to not be subject to an automated decision, including profiling.
- Enforcement: You can enforce the following elements of the Cargill BCRs in respect of your Employment Information or Business Information:
 - Cargill's commitment to the data protection principles across its processing of Personal Information;
 - Cargill's commitment to transparency and ensuring easy access to the Cargill BCRs;
 - The exercise of your individual rights in respect of your Employment Information or Business Information;
 - The impact of national legislation preventing compliance with the Cargill BCRs, including in the case of government access requests;
 - Your right to complain in respect of Cargill's processing under the Cargill BCRs through the internal complaint mechanism;
 - Cargill's obligations to cooperate with the relevant Data Protection Authorities, including the Information Commissioner's Office;
 - Your rights under the jurisdiction and liability provisions;

- Cargill's duty to inform you about updates to the Cargill BCRs and of the list of BCR members;
- Your rights as a third-party beneficiary under the Cargill BCRs; and
- Your right to obtain redress (including judicial redress) from Cargill as well as compensation for breaches of the Cargill BCRs.

Where the Cargill company is based outside the EEA, you may bring this claim against Cargill B.V. instead, which will be fully liable to you for the other Cargill company's breach. If you have any questions about your ability to enforce the EEA BCRs, please use this form.

Where the Cargill company is based outside the UK, you may bring this claim against Cargill Plc instead, which will be fully liable to you for the other Cargill company's breach. If you have any questions about your ability to enforce the UK BCRs, please use this form.

Cargill will inform you should Cargill suffer a security breach that is likely to result in a high risk to your rights and freedoms. Cargill will either notify you directly or, if this is not possible, by way of a public communication.

Cargill will respond to your requests without undue delay and in any event within one month of receipt, however Cargill may extend this by a maximum of two further months given the complexity and number of requests, in which case Cargill will inform you of this extension.

6. YOUR RIGHT TO COMPLAIN IN RESPECT OF THE CARGILL BCRs

If you have a concern about how Cargill has used your Employment Information, as a first step you should raise the concern in writing with your manager. If you have a concern about how Cargill has used your Business Information, as a first step you should raise the concern in writing with the Cargill company with which you do business.

If your concern in respect of Employment Information or Business Information has not resolved within a reasonable period of time, it can be escalated to the Global Privacy & Responsible AI Office by using this form.

If you are based in the EEA and your concern has not been fully resolved by the Global Privacy & Responsible AI Office, you are entitled to lodge your concern with your local Data Protection Authority. You can also lodge a concern with your local Data Protection Authority at any time without having to contact Cargill's Global Privacy & Responsible AI Office first. You may also enforce your rights against and seek redress (including compensation) from Cargill B.V. in the EEA for a breach of your rights or for any material or non-material loss caused by any Cargill company by direct recourse to the courts in your country. Where you seek redress against Cargill B.V., Cargill B.V. shall bear the burden of proof for establishing that the Cargill company did not process your Employment Information or Business Information in violation of the EEA BCRs or that no such breach took place. You have the same rights and remedies against Cargill B.V. as would have been available to you had the breach been by Cargill B.V. under the law applicable to it. You may also be represented by a not-for-profit body, organization, or association.

If you are based in the UK and your concern has not been fully resolved by the Global Privacy & Responsible AI Office, you are entitled to lodge your concern with the Information Commissioner's Office and you can make a complaint directly to them via their website. You can also lodge a concern with the Information Commissioner's Office at any time without having to contact Cargill's Global Privacy & Responsible AI Office first. You may also enforce your rights against and seek redress (including compensation) from Cargill Plc in the UK for a breach of your rights or for any material or non-material loss caused by any Cargill company by direct recourse to the courts of England and Wales. Where you seek redress against Cargill Plc, Cargill Plc shall bear the burden of proof for establishing that the Cargill company did not process your Employment Information or Business Information in violation of the UK BCRs or that no such breach took place. You have the same rights and remedies against Cargill Plc as would have been available to you had the breach been by Cargill Plc under English and Welsh law. You may also be represented by a not-for-profit body, organization, or association.

7. CONTACT DETAILS FOR QUERIES FROM RELEVANT DATA SUBJECTS
